

Gorka López Iribarren

Teacher at ESIC Pamplona

I was born in Pamplona and studied at the Monjardín Lycée, after which I took a degree in Semitics (Arabic) at the University of Barcelona.

After graduating, I obtained a diploma in Teaching Spanish as a Foreign Language from International House Barcelona. I taught Spanish at International House Palma during the summers of 2006, 2008 and 2010. I gained the Certificate of Proficiency in English (CPE) and in 2008 I took a course in analysing journalistic texts at the University of Jordan in Amman.

I have also worked as an English teacher at the following English academic centres: Colegio La Compasión (Pamplona), where I was also an English monitor at a summer camp in Estella in July 2009; Colegio Escolapios (Pamplona), and later in various academic centres until September 2011, when I joined ESIC.
